Inaugural class of European Healthcare and Health Product Law

November 9, 2018

The first students to enrol for the university diploma in European healthcare and health product law began classes on Thursday, 8 November 2018.

The European School of Law and the Research Institute on European, International and Comparative Law (IRDEIC) are pleased to welcome all new students who have embarked on the new diploma course in European healthcare and health product law.

This diploma has been developed by Nathalie De Grove-Valdeyron, lecturer in public law at Toulouse I Capitole University, as part of the three-year Jean Monnet Chair that she has held since September 2017.

The diploma is designed to allow students, who are starting out or continuing their education, to look at the European legal issues involved in healthcare. The course runs until May 2019.
